

ANJAMMA THE PLANT SAVIOR

Union Agriculture and Farmers Welfare Minister, Shri Radha Mohan Singh inaugurated the four day Pandit Deen Dayal Upadhyay Krishi Unnati Mela – 2016, in Mathura, on 26 September 2016. Pandit Deen Dayal Upadhyay was born in Mathura and he gave a new direction to the entire country through his thoughts and works. He has said that Government of India has made several plans for the development of agriculture and cooperation and farmers are getting benefits from this.

On this occasion he has requested farmers and entrepreneurs that they take more and more benefit from agriculture fair. On this occasion, he conferred Pandit Deendayal Upadhyaya Krishi Antyodaya Krishi Awards on poor farmers identified across the country for their outstanding achievement in agriculture despite not having access to education and money.

Deccan Development Society is proud to announce that Smt. Anjamma is the one among those poor farmers. Protection of Plant Varieties & Farmers Rights Authority, India (PPVFRA) recognised her efforts in preservation and conservation of local varieties of seeds.

She stores the seeds in a traditional way without using any chemicals. In a cane basket she store the seeds for next season, just using easily available ash and Neem leaves and seal them with cow dung and mud. The drought spell and zero rainfall couldn't make any difference to her, even in these crisis also she reaped 8 quintals Great millet and 6 quintals of Pigeonpea from her Bio diverse farm. She gives honor lectures in Krishi Vignyan Kendra in Pasthapur PPVFRA honored Namididoddi Anjamma with Plant Protection Savior Award felicitated by the Minister at this Krishi Unnati Mela. Deccan

Development Society supported her in all the stages of her journey.
